

Homework 4 proved to be a challenging assignment due to the many different component involved to reach the solution of the problem. This included managing the date and time of the flights to ensure that crew and plane used does not conflict with another. Or checking if the plane had enough seats for the flight. Because of how intricate this assignment was there was some aspects I was not able to account for, such as being able to assign crews and planes to multiple flights without conflicting date or time. I should have spent more time on this assignment and went to the help lab to get help on these issues.
